Season's greetings!!! I hope Santa is planning to bring you the club's new, revised Country List and Awards Program booklet. If not, buy yourself a copy. It's only US$3.00 in North America. It's worth having in the shack. Also, don't forget to check out the Company Store during the holiday season.

Mark Meece, ANARC's Chairman of the Executive Board, informs me that George Zeller has been elected to the board for the first time and that Harold Cones and Mark have been re-elected once again. I would expect the newly elected board to retain Mark as ANARC's Chairman in an upcoming election. Congratulations to all!

Speaking of elections... down under... George Fildes has been elected President of DX'ers Calling, Inc. This is the first time George has held the post. Other elected officials include Chris Rogers (Vice-President), Ray Everingham (Secretary) and Don Cook (Treasurer). Our long time friend, Harry Weatherly, continues as a committee member. Congratulations to all!

From Adrian M. Peterson, International Relations, Adventist World Radio we have the following information: "The international winner of the 1997 DX Contest in conjunction with the AWRDX program "Wavescan" is Mr. John Wilkins of Wheat Ridge in Colorado, USA, with a total of 929 points. In second and third place are Peter Grenfell of Oamaru in New Zealand and Takuji Sahara of Tokyo in Japan, with 897 and 892 points respectively. In John Wilkins winning entry, he submitted details of the following five exotic QSL cards: - XSG, Shanghai, Coastal Radio, 8502 kHz, 1987; PJB, Bonaire, Trans World Radio, 9535, 1992; XEWA, Mexico, Commercial, 540, 1989; VOA, Honolulu,

Tune in Sunday mornings at 10 A. M. Eastern Time on 7240 LSB for the latest in shortwave, medium wave and longwave listening, DX tips, and up to the minute hobby news. Contributors share their DX tips via their own amateur radio stations or by telephoning a "gateway" station who then broadcasts the relayed tips. Contributions are also accepted via the Internet Relay Chat (IRC) channel #swl while the net is in progress. Voice of America, 1964; HCJB, Ecuador, Gospel, 15395, 1981. A total of more than 500 entries were received from more than 60 countries in the 1997 DX contest which was conducted during the month of September. This year's contest invited listeners to submit details of the five smallest QSL cards in their collection. The regional area winners in the 1997 DX contest are as follows: North America—John Wilkins—USA—929 points; South Pacific—Peter Grenfell—New Zealand—897 points; Asia—Takuji Sahara—Japan—892 points; Europe—James Parker—Wales—888 points; Latin America—Ivan Lopez Alegria—Mexico—792 points; and Africa—David Gordon—South Africa—706 points. Among the awards that winner John Wilkins will receive is the coveted Bronze Medallion which is presented to the international winner each year. It is anticipated that his prizes will be presented at an award ceremony yet to be announced. He has also been interviewed for broadcast in the AWR DX program, "Wavescan". Each entry will receive a copy of the "World's Smallest QSL Card" which contains a total area of just 35 sq cm. In addition, each entry will also receive the 1997 QSL stamp; and numerous small prizes are awarded for entries in various categories. The QSL Certificate is available on request from all main offices of Adventist World Radio. As a result of his remarkable entry in the 1997 "Wavescan" DX Contest, John Wilkins joins an illustrious honor roll of international DXers who have won previous annual contests. This is the complete list: - 1997 John Wilkins, 1996 William Matthews, 1995 Arthur Cushen, 1984 Salvatore Placanica, 1983 Andrew Elwell, 1982 Andrew Elwell, 1981 Bryan Marsh, 1980 Bryan Marsh, 1979 Ashok Kumar Bose, 1978 Douglas Doull, and 1977 Victor Goonetilleke. Several participants in the 1997 DX contest suggested that next year's contest should be a search for the world's largest QSL card. This then is the title of the 1998 DX contest, "The World's Largest QSL Card", and it is scheduled for the month of September 1998. Additional details will be announced towards the middle of next year."

How is your Portuguese? "Radioescutas" is an electronic mailing list aimed at Portuguese-language Dxers and shortwave listeners. It is open to everybody in the radio listening hobby. Although the list's official language is Portuguese, Spanish and English citations are occasionally used. To subscribe to the list, send a message to <radioescutas-request@carrier.com.br> with the subject "subscribe." You will then receive an automatic message confirming the subscription and detailing a few instructions, in Portuguese, on how to proceed while in the list.

We close this month with one of those "end of an era" notes. Andy Sennitt, long time editor of the World Radio TV Handbook ("WRTH"), has resigned. His assistant, Bart Kuperus, has also resigned. Andy will become a media consultant while Bart moves on to work for a new Dutch company involved in DTP and the Internet. The WRTH'98 will not be affected by this turn of events since it is already at the printer. A search for a new editor is underway. Good luck to Andy Sennitt and Bart Kuperus in their new endeavors.

That's it for this month. Enjoy this month's edition of the JOURNAL; it's another good one.

Holiday Season Programming

Tis the Season! And without further adieu, may yours be happy, healthy and fulfilling. As our gift to you, we have a special column detailing some of the excellent Seasonal programming available via shortwave this month. A reminder: all days and times are in UTC. [Ed note: John submitted his usual material as well this month, which had to be cut for space. The entire unedited column is on NASWeb at <<http://www.anarc.org/naswa/>> if you have Internet access.]

While far from comprehensive, the following list should provide you with a few listening options over the Holidays. Many stations do not program and schedule far enough in advance to make even the relatively liberal deadlines of The Journal. But, it would be fair to say that most stations will have some programming appropriate to the Season, especially during Christmas week, around New Year's Day, and on the Feast of the Epiphany (January 6), the latter especially on European stations and those from countries observing the Eastern Rite. Most of these will take the form of special features, reports and music broadcast within regular magazine-style programs and highlighting aspects of celebrations and observances within their home countries.

For example, from previous years' experience, it is likely that RCI/CBC will feature some traditional stories read by "Fire-side AI" and messages from Canadian peacekeepers and their families in Canada on As It Happens (Mon.-Fri. 2330-0100 on 5960/9755). Listeners' greetings are likely on The Mailbag (Mon. 0230 on 6155/9535/9755/9780/11865) each week during December.

The various religious stations in the US and around the world are certain to carry considerable special Christmas programming. For example, apart from meditations on Christmas on Vatican Radio's and WEWN's regular programs, both stations could be expected to broadcast Midnight Mass. (Unfortunately, calls to each station for details were unanswered at deadline.) WYFR, WWCR, WHRI, etc. will likely have their own forms of celebration as well.

The eight days of Hannukah begin on December 24 this year. Kol Israel, both in its longer English Service transmissions (1500-1530 on 9365/12080 and 2000-2025 on 7465/9435/9365) and via the relay of Reshet Bet (24 hours on 7495, 11590, 15615 or 17545), one of its Hebrew domestic services, can be expected to have special programs and music observing the feast. The attentive listener will find them.

Well here we come to the holiday season. With the sunspot cycle finally picking up I'm sure a lot more listening is getting done these days. And of course now is the time to finalize your plans for Kulpsville 1998. I hope you plan to come out and help us start the next decade of this grand radio hobby tradition.

Christmas came a little early for Old Uncle Skip in the form of a box of great books from the American Radio Relay League. Yeah, I know, in spite of my nearly constant harping on the subject here, in Monitoring Times and in American Scannergram, there are still one or two folks out there who haven't become licensed radio amateurs. Well don't forget that non-hams can get a lot of great radio information by keeping a eye on the amateur radio press. Dollar for dollar, ARRL publications are hard to beat for hard information. They have also entered the computer publishing age with some CD based periodicals as well as line of useful programs. Lets take the Kulpsville 98 scenario to its full potential with a few of these publications.

Okay, you're planning to drive into Kulpsville this year from your personal little corner of the world. If you are an amateur radio operator (or a dedicated scannist with a receiver that covers the VHF/UHF etc. hams bands) you may want a source for any repeater stations that can be used along the route. The old, and somewhat tedious method of figuring this out, involved a copy of a repeater guide (such as the ARRL's own annually published Repeater Directory) and a pile of road maps that cover the area of travel. This is particularly a load of work if the trip is long and it follows a route that you don't use every day. This problem is compounded if you do a lot of traveling outside of your local area. Taking full advantage of modern computer technology coupled with a complete data base of repeater information and mapping software, you've got TravelPlus for Repeaters™.

To run the program you will require at least a 386DX / 25 MHz processor supported by a Math coprocessor but a 486DX or Pentium is preferred. You'll need at least 8 Megs of memory but 16 Megs are preferred. The program needs 4 megabytes of free hard disk space to set up and run. The program is runs only in the Windows™ 3.1 or better environment. You'll need to support Windows™ 640x480x256 graphics mode. Of course a CD-ROM drive and a mouse or equivalent pointing device rounds out the hardware requirements. Sorry, this program leaves DOS and Mac folks out of the picture. I still appreciate that it does not require a 3 kilobuck "bleeding edge" machine to run. You could build up a computer that would support this program for under $200 if you sort through the piles under the tables at hamfests.

Installation is simple. Enter Windows™ and run the setup program from your CD-ROM drive. The manual has only four pages of text and two graphics and to be frank it is more than you will need to figure out how to use TravelPlus. In a nut shell, use the mouse to mark two or more points on the map along your route from launch to destination, select the frequencies and bands your interested in, hit the "Create List" button and you get a nice collection of places to tune your transceiver or scanner while you travel. Several pull down menus and screens allow you to further fine tune the data sort and management process.

Right out of the package I did a path along the route I drive to work and found 63 accessible 2 meter and 70 centimeter repeaters to throw my call out to. The route from my humble home to the next Kulpsville gathering came up with 71 machines (I'm fairly close). The all important annual trek to Sandbridge Virginia for male bonding with The Scanner Scum and "strike team" operations with The Burkey Boys selected 117 repeaters. All three lists were sorted saved to disk and printed out in under ten minutes. This is too easy. You can also forgo the map system and just sort through the data base directly.

The data file storage method is proprietary and can't be directly translated into other database programs or scanner/transceiver management programs. It would be neat to just upload the data into a programmable handheld. I'd love to fast load my Yaesu FT-50R like I load my AOR AR-8K from the Percon CD-ROM. This is not so much a criticism as a request for a future feature.

The program is about a goof proof as any I've tried and I am known for being a bit of a bull in a china shop when I'm playing in Windows™. If you are and ham and you go on the road even a few time a year. This program is a great time saver.

Okay you've got your ham ticket and you've got TravelPlus so you know what you can hear. But you really need a transceiver to get in on the action. Maybe you are a brand new "No-Code" Technician class or, like me you haven't upgraded your 2 meter gear since Reagan was in the White House. Before you succumb to the razzle dazzle of the magazine ads, take a look through

The short take on this text is that it is a comprehensive compilation of VHF/UHF product reviews taken from the pages of QST magazine from between 1990 and 1997. Between its covers are full reviews with lab testing on 33 handheld and 52 Base/Mobile transceivers covering 6 meters and higher frequencies. These are set up in comparison groups of similar units to make the investigation process much easier. Also included are comparison reviews of antennas and amplifiers.

This book was of great personal use because I upgraded my mobile and handheld equipment to modern "dual-band" transceivers recently. I'm sure I got more than the cover price back in value and savings in picking my new rigs. And it sure beat the pants off of trying to dig through many years of equipment reviews in my QST stacks.

While I was in the market for new radios, this guide would be a great tool for anyone wading through the used market. It's much easier to make an informed decision at the hamfest tables when you have a book like this in your back pocket.

For those of you not familiar with the QST review product review format, equipment is subject to laboratory testing for published specifications. The claims and the facts are displayed side by side. Equipment is also examined for spectral purity and the QST staff pulls no punches. They are also known to contact the manufacturer to get explanations for any anomalies on the record. Radios are further evaluated for ergonomics and are put to use in real world situations to give their reader the best possible picture of what they are getting for their hard earned cash. I wouldn't buy a piece of ham gear today without first seeing what "The League" had to say about it.

If you in the market for a transceiver to "talk-in" to Kulpsville with the rest of us ham oriented monitors. Check this book out before you buy.

The MFJ-1026 Deluxe Noise Canceling Signal Enhancer

The MFJ-1026 is an antenna combiner that allows the user to adjust both the phase and amplitude of the signals received from two antennas. This capability allows the listener to reduce undesired noise and interference or, alternatively, peak the desired signal. The '1026 is similar to units offered by JPS and the English firm, S.E.M. The advantage of such units is that noise reduction occurs before the antenna input of the receiver, preventing AGC overload and receiver desensitization from strong noise signals. Unlike conventional noise blankers this approach to noise reduction does not introduce distortion, is effective on more types of interference and can be used when the noise signal is stronger than the desired signal. Unlike the JPS ANC-4, the MFJ unit allows the user to adjust the gain of both the "Main" and "Noise" antennas, which is useful when using the units to peak a desired signal. The MFJ-1026 also has a phase inversion switch to permit instant switching between peaking and nulling. The owner's manual also states the following benefits for the '1026—"exceptional phase amplitude flatness, making adjustments easy and very repeatable. Typical phasing systems provide either limited phase adjustment range, or change the signal's level as phase is adjusted. In the MFJ-1026, gain changes are less than 3 dB (and typically less than 1 dB) as the phase control is rotated throughout its range." Null depths of up to 60 dB are claimed for the unit.

The MFJ-1026 can be used with a transceiver as well as a receiver. The unit has a built-in amplified whip antenna which can be used as the auxiliary antenna (although the manual states that in most cases, an external auxiliary antenna will yield the best results). The MFJ-1025 is similar, but lacks the built-in whip and active antenna circuitry.

The Circuit

The MFJ-1026 consists of a noise amplifier, bridge-type phasing circuit, active combiner and transmitter change over relay. Internal jumpers configure whether or not the internal whip is active and the gain level for the external antenna. The stated frequency range of the '1026 is from mediumwave up to the lower VHF frequencies. The power requirements are 12–15 volts DC at approximately 150 milliamps.

The Box

The MFJ-1026 is housed in a black box measuring 6¼ x 1¼ x 6½ inches. There is a hole in the top of the cabinet for the whip antenna to screw into the circuit board. The whip measures 20 inches when fully extended. Across the back panel are SO-239 connectors for the main antenna and output to the radio. The auxiliary antenna may be connected either through a SO-239 or via a RCA jack. There is an additional RCA jack for a relay control line from a transceiver, a 2.1 mm coaxial jack for DC power and a ground stud.

The front panel has knobs for setting the delay time for the transmit/receive relay, adjusting the gain for the Main and Auxiliary antennas and adjusting the phase. There are pushbuttons for On/Off, Pre-amp selection, Frequency range and Phase invert. Depending on the setting of the internal jumpers, the Pre-amp switch either selects between the internal whip or an external antenna or permits defeating the amplifier with an external auxiliary antenna. The Frequency range switch is set to low for frequencies below 7 MHz or high for frequencies above 12 MHz. Between 7 and 12 MHz, either setting may be used. There is a red LED "power on" indicator at the far right of the front panel.

Operation

The MFJ-1026 inserts between the receiver's input and the main station antenna. Power can be supplied by just about any 12 volt source, but the MFJ-1312B power cube is available for an additional $12.95. The noise antenna is probably worth spending some time experimenting with. Certainly the built-in whip can be used (unless you opted for the whipless 1025), but it's worthwhile to try different options. I'm using about 15' of wire run up the side of the house adjacent to the shack, which I chose because it's relatively close to my local noise sources and is vertically polarized, which is supposed to enhance noise reception. An antenna that provides too much signal can overload the unit and cause spurious responses, as I found out when I used my 120' random wire as the noise antenna for frequencies in the 3 MHz range.

There has been some excitement in the medium-wave DX'ing community about the capability of the '1026 as an antenna phasing unit to reduce co-channel interference.

The instructions in the manual are relatively straight forward, including information on using the '1026 with a linear amplifier and as a phasing unit to combine two antennas to achieve an electrically steerable array to vary antenna directivity. The basic adjustment procedure is fully outlined in the instructions, but does take some practice in implementation. The instructions advise starting by practicing nulling out local MW stations, since they have stable groundwave signals with no fading. Once this is mastered, proceed to trying to null noise and interfering signals.

Maximizing the effectiveness of the MFJ-1026 (or any other similar unit) takes a great deal of time and patience. This unit is not a simple "pushbutton" device which will magically take out noise. It can be very effective—in my case, I was impressed by the job it did on some low-voltage lighting in the kitchen that generates wide-band hash (beware of these lights if you ever remodel!) However, I also found that sometimes the results are difficult to reproduce. Also, there is a large degree of interaction between the controls and knob-twiddling is a necessity.

There has been some excitement in the medium-wave DX'ing community about the capability of the '1026 as an antenna phasing unit to reduce co-channel interference. For best MW performance, some internal circuit modifications need to be made to improve the sensitivity of the unit in this frequency range. These modifications are outlined in the September 22, 1997 DX News, the publication of the National Radio Club and should also be available via the Internet.

The MFJ-1026 is a versatile unit, but it does have a learning curve. Fortunately, MFJ offers a 30-day money back (less shipping) return policy for units purchased directly from them. The warranty against defects is for twelve months. The '1026 lists for $139.95. The MFJ-1025 may be the better value at $20 less, especially if you have the capability to use something besides a whip as the noise antenna. MFJ Enterprises' address is P. O. Box 494, Mississippi State, MS 39762; (601) 323-5869; www.mfjenterprises.com. Thanks to Universal Radio for providing the review unit.

AUSTRALIA The old Radio Australia Darwin transmitters will not be used by Radio Free Asia for transmissions into China, Cambodia and the southeast Asian sub-continent. This was announced yesterday by Australia's Foreign Affairs Dept. Reasons cited were both technical as well as political: Technical—because it concerned a 3-month trial period. Since the transmitters had been mothballed, recommissioning them for such a short period would not have been "cost-effective." Political—such transmissions by US-based propaganda were deemed to be "not conducive" to Australia's interests and good relations with China and "inappropriate" for other parts of Asia. CANADA Concerning RCI and the W97 schedules, the updating concerns only the 0300-0400 programming to the Caribbean, which will continue to be Canadian Forces Network programming on Tue-Sat (6155, 9755, 9780). One change from the printed schedule concerns the 2230-2300 Mon-Fri programming in French. Instead of being a relay from the dom SRC network, this slot is filled with an RCI-produced program entitled "Canada Ce Soir." It's a nx & magazine program, especially intended for Canadians living or travelling abroad. B=Bontosongu C=Cimanggis K=Kebayoran

Cimanggis is 50 km south of Jakarta and Bontosongu is 20 km south of Ujung Pandang. Kebayoran is 7 km SW of the center of Jakarta City. The

1997 Transmitter Documentation Project discloses that Kebayoran WAS the main RRI transmitting site between approximately 1950 and 1970. Does anyone know, for sure, if this site still exists? (19-Oct/Jones/EDXP/Padula-AUS/Jembatan DX/Tamada-JPN)

Last week I heard them in Spanish at 0030 and in English at 0100 on new 11785 (obviously replacing 9525), booming in with a strong and undisturbed signal here in Northern Germany. Their home service has recently been audible on new 11755 (// to 9680) around 2300. (20-Oct/Gatzke-FRG/EDXP/Jembatan DX/Yamada-JPN)

4769.8N, 0955-1025*, R. Pyongyang, 17+18/10, transmitter carrier, 1000 IS, 1005 instrumental National Anthem, Korean ID "...Pangsong imnida...", "revolut songs, 1020 closing announcement, signing-off at 1025. No // freqs discovered so far. (Schulze) Very interesting. I wasn't able to hear this when I checked on Oct. 28. Never heard anything official (RP, PBS, KCBS) on this frequency (4770v). This is the usual random number frequency, and several transmissions are observed every day. It's usually // with 5870. 1000 is one of the usual times, though not daily. Many random number transmissions from North Korea sign on with the same IS as RP/PBS/KCBS (=Song of Gen. Kim Il Sung) but they do not ID like "...Bangsong imnida." IS is followed by some distinctive music depending on broadcast type, but the national anthem is not used. They do not "sign off" but abruptly end transmissions after the last message. Sometimes some music or plain text (e.g. "letter from Big Brother in Pyongyang to Little Brother in Pusan") is aired instead of random numbers. If you (Roland Schulze) heard them sign on with the anthem, and formally sign off at the end, then it's unlikely random numbers. I will keep checking, just in case they come up again. Thanks, Roland.  7205.8 UnID 2307 A Latin here on this odd freq with lots of mensajes ("atencion, atencion") and brief stingers played on a harp. Numerous-5 time checks from 2315 onwards interspersed with nondescript romantic vocals past 2400. Too weak and too much QRN to nail down spoken ID. Not there the next evening; it was probably an errant Peruvian whose engineer had punched up the wrong freq. Worth watching, though. (7-Nov/Hill-MA) The new station on 7205.6v is Radio Paraton, noted Nov 12 before 1100 with Amaneciendo con Paraton, and after 1100 with Buenos Dias, Hermano Campesino. The name doesn't make sense; trnx to Henrik Klemetz for helping to identify it. We don't hear a location but think it may be in northern Peru near the Ecuadorian border (Rodriguez-COL/World of Radio/ Hauser-OK)

PHILIPPINES Vatican Radio is using a transmitter fr Radio Veritas Asia Manila at Palauig, PHL for it's daily transmission in Chinese to EAS 1230-1315. The freq is 6020 kHz with a power of 250 kW, beamed at 355 deg, this acc to the HFCC W97 schedule (site 'PUG'). (12-Nov/Vissers-BEL/WWDXC Topnews/Bueschel-FRG)

The 500 kW SW stn in Maine previously known as WCSN and WVHA has finally been sold. The buyer is LeSea Broadcasting, owner of WHRI and KWHR. Due to regulatory red tape, the Maine stn is not expected back on the air until Dec. (30-Oct/Thurman/World Of Radio/Hausser/WWDXC Topnews/Bueschel-FRG)

YEMEN 5951 Rep. of Yemen Radio (t), 1915-2210*. What I originally thought might be Guyana here turns out to be a Middle Eastern station with Arabic talk and vocal music typical of the region. Time pips are given at 2030, but there is never any break on the hour. The most likely candidate is Yemen's nominal 5950, seldom reported but still active per overseas DXers. Although it's definitely not 9780v, both leave the air within a few seconds of each other—so a possibility is Sana'a with two separate programs. (11-Nov/Hill-MA)

Hi and welcome the holiday edition of THE PIRATE RADIO REPORT. I'd like to wish all of you a great Christmas and New Year's. There should be lots of activity in between.

MV Electra Radioship Update

The MV Electra is all finished and ready to go. The latest delay was caused by the need to hire a new pilot and one has just been signed up. An organization called Frontline International [this is a religious group] is now identified as funder of the project. Weiner no longer expects the the ship will carry the Yesterday USA Network. As we mentioned before, there is one 10 kw shortwave transmitter and a 1 kw backup installed on the ship. The antenna is an inverted V without much gain, but the sea water will help. Weiner says that his part of the project, installing the radio equipment is done, and he will not be sailing with the ship to the Caribbean.

Dr. Scott Becker [the disbarred lawyer] says that the project is fully funded and has plenty of money. [Hauser, RIB via WOR; NU#1450] On a snowy Sunday morning, November 23rd, I drove the 15 miles down to see if the MV Electra was still in port. It was still there, now painted in purple and white. All its lights were lit and the diesel engine was chugging away. Calls to the ship have gone unreturned, so I haven't been able to get any first hand information.

The FCC Cracks Down On FM Pirates

Over the past couple of months, the FCC has been closing many of these low powered stations in various cities throughout the US. This is due partly in response to the NAB [National Association Of Broadcasters] who urged the FCC to do this, claiming they were QRming legitimate stations.

A couple of members have sent in interesting newspaper articles on the FM scene. Bruce Barker in PA sent us an article on Doug Brewer's "Tampa's Party Pirate" from the 10-21 edition of the Wall Street Journal. This station was raided and silenced in mid-November along with two other Tampa pirates. One operator was even jailed because of pot and related items that were found during the bust. Publisher Bill Oliver sent an article from The Philadelphia Enquirer about WSKR-FM, a pirate in West Philly that had recently been closed by the FCC. The good news is that the FCC seems to have their hands full with the FM guys. There hasn't been a bust of a shortwave pirate in about three years.
